Rules on account and credit validity

- SIM includes USD 10,00 initial credit
- Initial account validity is one year, effective from first call made.
- First call must be made within 6 months after date of activation; otherwise SIM card will be deactivated.
- If first call has been made, validity of the SIM card follows the standard SIM validity periods
- The account may be refilled with any scratch card denomination to extend the validity period of the SIM card. The renewal fee of 39USD for 365 days will be deducted from the prepaid balance.
- The SIM card is in grace period when the validity of the prepaid account is over. During this period you can refill the account during two months in order to make outgoing calls again. During grace period you are allowed to receive incoming calls
- If you do not refill during the grace period the SIM enters into the suspension period. During this 4 month period you are not able to receive or place calls, unless you pay 25 USD reactivation fee and maintain sufficient balance to make calls.
- During the suspension period you receive periodically SMS reminders to reactivate your account. This can be done by refilling your account with enough credit. Then you send an SMS request for activation. The reactivation fee is then deducted from your balance. An SMS confirmation message will be sent to you showing payment details and available balance.
